avacation, and to answer your last letter.

I am sorry that the little information I might have given you is now quite useless, as your work has already been published, and yesterday I received a copy from my friend Sir Charles Dilke.

With kind remembrances to Miss Linden, whose kind letter I shall not fail to answer

Believe me to remain Yours sincerely

My dear Sir

I have received your Kind letter and the book, for which I sincerely thank you. To be frank with you I must own that my first impression on hearing of the publication of the Letter was most painful, and in the heat of the moment, I thus expressed myself to Sir Charles Dilke; but without the
